LOT POLISH AIRLINES

LOT Polish Airlines is one of the 12 longest-operating airlines in the world. LOT offers passengers a comfortable and safe journey onboard its technologically advanced fleet. With an extensive route network, we connect Poland with airports in Europe, North America, and Asia.

We operate sustainably to minimize our impact on the natural environment. This Environmental Policy outlines our commitments and goals regarding environmental and climate protection. This document applies to both our operational and corporate activities.

LOT's commitments include:

- Operating in accordance with environmental protection regulations as stipulated by Polish law, European law and the laws of the countries to which we fly.
- Preventing and reducing air pollution emissions by monitoring them, continually improving the fuel efficiency of aviation operations and responsibly managing emissions throughout the Company's activities.
- Managing waste responsibly by reducing and, whenever possible, avoiding its generation. Systematically minimizing the use of plastic products on board our aircraft in favor of multiple use alternatives.
- Limiting the negative impact on the natural environment and striving to improve environmental performance and environmental management.
- Providing leadership at the Board and management level in environmental matters, setting short- and long-term goals and ensuring training and resources necessary for their achievement.
- Promoting environmentally friendly behaviors among employees, collaborators, clients, suppliers, and subcontractors to raise awareness about climate change. Encouraging the adoption of environmental protection principles aimed in daily professional activities and beyond.
- Participating in international cooperation through membership in the IATA Environmental Assessment program, which covers all planned flights and corporate activities within Poland. The program provides verification tools, supports the development of an organization recognized for its commitment to social responsibility, and confirms the alignment of our actions with the company's established environmental policy.
